Evolution

This subject is creating quite a stir in Kentucky just now. With the defenders of the bible on one side and the subjects of evolution on the other side. There seems to be quite a variation between the two.

The bible teaches that God created man in his own image; evolution teaches man to have originated from brutes, and guesses at which specie. It is impossible to believe the teachings of that part of evolution and the bible too.

It is unlawful to teach the bible in the schools supported by the State.

A bill has been introduced to place the same restrictions on that part of evolution that contradicts the bible.

A man who will sanction a law to prohibit the teaching of the bible in state schools, and favor anti bible teachings as to the creation of man in these same schools has already demonstrated one thing, he is really sincere in his belief that he has brute parentage.

Nothing is so harmful to the bible, nothing is so degenerating to the human mind, and its conception of self. This doctrine is the fore runner of atheism, and infidelity. It should be curbed by law.

Jail Breakers Caught In Clay City

Wednesday night of last week five men escaped from the Irvine jail. Two of the men, Ambrose Lynch, charged with forgery and Buzz Henry, charged with whiskey operations, made their way to Clay City where they have relatives. Green Covey, U. S. Deputy Marshal and John Rowland, special deputy, followed them here. D. B. Hurt arrested the men on a back street. He had A. G. Shimmfessel qualified as his deputy who assisted him in his arrest. They took the men back to Irvine that night. The jail delivery was effected by sawing seven-eighths steel bars in two.

Blaze in Shimmfessel's Store

Early Tuesday morning a blaze was discovered in C. Shimmfessel's store which caused considerable damage before it could be extinguished. The bucket brigade put in effective work in a very short time. Many of the goods were carried to safety, taking no chances on the fire gaining headway. This fire is a reminder of how badly we may need a fire department and more especially water works.

Stops Up Road

Rev. Geo. W. McIntosh has put a fence across the new road on the Powell side of the Irvine road. The Rev. McIntosh agreed for the change in this road under certain provisions for change of fence and new fencing, all of which was started in good faith, it is claimed, by the good road people, but evidently has changed his mind. His fencing this road greatly damages those persons who have put up their cash to put the road through.

Bus Line to Winchester

Mr. C. R. Mize, who for the past year has carried passengers to all sections radiating from Clay City in his trusty Ford, will shortly put on a motor bus line between this city and Winchester. The bus will leave Clay City some time after the down train runs and go direct to Winchester. It will return in the afternoon before sun down. This will be of great convenience to every body who wishes to go that way. It will at least enable them to go and come in daylight.

Mr. Mize together with Joe Mountz, the Ford agent, left today for Cincinnati to get a new Ford Chassis. They will go from there to Greenfield, Ohio, and get a new bus body for the machine.

When the new hack line is put into operation an effort will be made to connect Stanton with jitney service.

Little Child Dies

Mildred, the bright little 18 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Chaney died Tuesday at Rev. Sherman Robbins in this city. Burial at Stanton Wednesday. Funeral services at Stanton Presbyterian church by the Rev. R. A. McConagha. Mr. Chaney lives at Hazard but he and Mrs. Chaney were visiting here when the child took sick. Mrs. Chaney is a daughter of Rev. Robbins.

Miss Eubank Sings in Lexington

Miss Vera Eubank, of this city, sang Monday night at the Lexington College of Music by special request of her teacher. Miss Anna Chandler Goff. Miss Eubank has a rare coloratura soprano voice, beautiful and promising. The audience who heard Miss Eubank and others, was enthusiastic in praise for the musicians.

Light Plant Here

The new light plant is here and installed now ready for the wiring. Brilliant lights can be had in your home at the touch of a button. Only one-half cent an hour for 25 watt lamps; 50 watt bulbs one cent an hour. Continuous current, night and day. No better service in any city or town.

Stock Sales

Don't forget the public live stock sales in this city Saturday, February 20th. Let every body who has stock to sell bring them in and everybody who wants to buy live stock be on the ground, and in this way help to build up for Powell county something of value. Remember free lottage and free weights.

Ground Hog Day

Today is Ground Hog day and a sunshiny day from beginning to end. So look out for the winter he foretells. But surely the day was more enjoyable than one so cloudy he could not see his shadow.

A Kentucky Proposition

The Great Southern Refining Company, of Lexington, has entered the Powell county field for the delivery of their products—Bluegrass Gasoline, Movoline Motor Oil and kerosene. The simple fact that their oil is produced in Kentucky, is refined in Kentucky, is owned by people of Kentucky and their products are as good as any delivered in Kentucky at as low price as any sold in Kentucky, is just reason that their gas and oils should be used by all the people of Kentucky.

The McKinney Sale

The sale of Moses McKinney was largely attended Tuesday and articles sold well.

Eight cows sold brought from $27 to $68; one yearling Hereford bull, $46; 8 Hereford heifer calves $35 00 each; 9 grade calves from $9 25 to $16 00; one aged horse, $61 00; one 4 year-old horse, $112 50; 52 sheep, $8 60 each; one sow and pigs $54 00; 2 100lb. shots $10 00 each; one sow $15 25. Household goods brought good prices.

Card of Thanks

Through these columns we desire to express our thanks to those persons who rendered assistance in the sickness and death of our dear little daughter, Georgia May. We also desire to thank Bro. Nelson for the words of comfort spoken in his remarks at our home before laying away the precious one.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Powell.

Vote on Bond Issue Abandoned

The proposition to vote ten millions in bonds for the Kentucky University has been abandoned. We failed to see why this school should be given anything, if they continue to teach that man originated from a monkey or some such other beasts. One-half the Christian people would not think of sending their children to this school where they receive such obnoxious and silly teachings.

Road Bonds Not Popular

There is considerable sentiment against the fifty million dollars road bonds because of the defection of those in charge of their building in the past. The cost has been too high. Better wait until we learn how to build roads economically before we put thirty years tax into them.

A Day Late

The Times is a day late, but this could not be avoided this time. Several items are crowded out also.

Grant Witt and assistant was here yesterday doing some tin spouting for the Clay City flour mill.

LISTEN—Remember our bulk roast white mule coffee, 18c lb. J. J. Curry.

Social

The Mothers' Club gave a social meeting Tuesday afternoon. The topic of general discussion was education and how best to improve our school. Sandwiches, cake, coffee and hot chocolate were served. The members and guests present were:

Mrs. W. J. Mountz, President; Mrs. W. T. McGuire, Vice Pres.; Mrs. E. Wilson, 2nd Vice Pres.; Mrs. James Bloom, Treas.; Mrs. H. H. Pherigo, Sec.; Mrs. W. E. Armour, Mrs. O. L. Knight, Mrs. W. R. Eubank, Mrs. A. P. Johnson, Mrs. Ida Carr, Mrs. Carrie Groves, Mrs. Caroline Derickson, Mrs. S. T. Carr, Mrs. J. R. Nelson, Miss Mary Nelson, Mrs. Wm. C. Martin, Mrs. Whittinghill.

Mrs. Derickson put in her membership, which was very much appreciated, and we hope as the weather gets better that all mothers that are interested in their child's education and future will come out and join this band of workers. Workers is what it takes, not slackers, to put this great problem through which our town and children must have.

If you are interested and want to know what we are doing, meet with us every last Thursday in each month at 2 o'clock. Mothers' Club.

Memorial

In loving memory of dear sister, Lizzie Martin, who died December 12th, 1921.

Dear sister, since from earth you passed away, it makes our hearts ache, as we think of your sun shine and shadows fall sweet remembrance. Oh! how we miss you, dear sister, each day more and more, and we hope to be with you some day, on that bright and happy shore.

THE "OLD RELIABLE" THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

White Haired Alabama Lady Says She Has Seen Medicines Come and Go But The "Old Reliable" Thedford's Black-Draught Came and Stayed.

Dutton, Ala.—In recommending Thedford's Black-Draught to her friends and neighbors here, Mrs. T. F. Parks, a well-known Jackson County lady, said: "I am getting up in years; my head is pretty white. I have seen medicines and remedies come and go but the old reliable came and stayed. I am talking of Black-Draught, a liver medicine we have used for years—one that can be depended upon and one that will do the work."

"Black-Draught will relieve indigestion and constipation if taken right, and I know for I tried it. It is the best thing I have ever found for the full, uncomfortable feeling after meals. Sour stomach and sick headache can be relieved by taking Black-Draught. It aids digestion, also assists the liver in throwing off impurities. I am glad to recommend Black-Draught, and do, to my friends and neighbors."

Thedford's Black-Draught is a standard household remedy with a record of over seventy years of successful use. Every one occasionally needs something to help cleanse the system of impurities. Try Black-Draught. Insist upon Thedford's, the genuine.

Some Aspects of the Farmers' Problems

By BERNARD M. BARUCH

(Reprinted from Atlantic Monthly)

IV

Now, what is the farmer asking? Without trying to catalogue the remedial measures that have been suggested in his behalf, the principal proposals that bear directly on the improvement of his distributing and marketing relations may be summarized as follows:—

First: storage warehouses for cotton, wool and tobacco, and elevators for grain of sufficient capacity to meet the maximum demand on them at the peak of the marketing period. The farmer thinks that either private capital must furnish these facilities, or the state must erect and own the elevators and warehouses.

Second: weighing and grading of agricultural products, and certification thereof, to be done by impartial and disinterested public inspectors (this is already accomplished to some extent by the federal hogging of weighers and graders), to eliminate underpaying, overcharging, and unfair grading, and to facilitate the utilization of the stored products as the basis of credit.

Third: a certainty of credit sufficient to enable the marketing of products in an orderly manner.

Fourth: the Department of Agriculture should collect, tabulate, summarize, and regularly and frequently publish and distribute to the farmers, full information from all the markets of the world, so that they shall be as well informed of their selling position as buyers now are of their buying position.

Fifth: freedom to integrate the business of agriculture by means of consolidated selling agencies, co-ordinating and co-operating in such way as to put the farmer on an equal footing with the large buyers of his products, and with commercial relations in other industries.

When a business requires specialized talent, it has to buy it. So will the farmers; and perhaps the best way for them to get it would be to utilize some of the present machinery of the largest established agencies dealing in farm products. Of course, if he wishes, the farmer may go further and engage in flour-milling and other manufactures of food products. In my opinion, however, he would be wise to stop short of that. Public interest may be opposed to all great integrations; but, in justice, should they be forbidden to the farmer and permitted to others? The corporate form of association cannot now be wholly adapted to his objects and conditions. The looser co-operative form seems more generally suitable. Therefore, he wishes to be free, if he finds it desirable and feasible, to resort to co-operation with his fellows and neighbors, without running afoul of the law. To urge that the farmers should have the same liberty to consolidate and co-ordinate their peculiar economic functions, which other industries in their fields enjoy, is not, however, to concede that any business integration should have legislative sanction to exercise monopolistic power. The American people are as firmly opposed to industrial as to political autocracy, whether attempted by rural or by urban industry.

For lack of united effort the farmers as a whole are still marketing their crops by antiquated methods, or by no methods at all, but they are surrounded by a business world that has been modernized to the last minute and is tirelessly striving for efficiency. This efficiency is due in large measure to big business, to united business, to integrated business. The farmers now seek the benefits of such largeness, union and integration.

The American farmer is a modern of the moderns in the use of labor saving machinery, and he has made vast strides in recent years in scientific tillage and efficient farm management but as a business in contact with other businesses agriculture is a "one horse shay" in competition with high power automobiles. The American farmer is the greatest and most intractable of individualists. While industrial production and all phases of the huge commercial mechanism and its myriad accessories have articulated and co-ordinated themselves all the way from natural raw materials to retail sales, the business of agriculture has gone on in much the one man fashion of the backwoods of the first part of the nineteenth century, when the farmer was self sufficient and did not depend upon, or care very much, what the great world was doing. The result is that the agricultural group is almost as much at a disadvantage in dealing with other economic groups as the jay farmer of the funny pages in the hands of sleek urban confidence men, who sell him acreage in Central Park or the Chicago city hall. The leaders of the farmers thoroughly understand this, and they are intelligently striving to integrate their industry so that it will be on an equal footing with other businesses.

As an example of integration, take the steel industry, in which the model is the United States Steel Corporation, with its iron mines, its coal mines, its lake and rail transportation, its ocean vessels, its by-product coke ovens, its blast furnaces, its open hearth and Bessemer furnaces, its rolling mills, its tube mills and other manufacturing processes that are carried to the highest degree of finished production compatible with the large trade it has built up. All this is generally conceded to be to the advantage of the consumer. Nor does the steel corporation inconsiderately dump its products on the market. On the contrary, it so acts that it is frequently a stabilizing influence, as is often the case with other large organizations. It is master of its distribution as well as of its production. If prices are not satisfactory the products are held back or production is reduced or suspended. It is not compelled to send a year's work to the market at one time and take whatever it can get under such circumstances. It has one selling policy and its own export department. Neither are the grades and qualities of steel determined at the caprice of the buyer, nor does the latter hold the scales. In this single integration of the steel corporation is represented about 40 per cent of the steel production of America. The rest is mostly in the hands of a few large companies. In ordinary times the steel corporation, by example, stabilizes all steel prices. If this is permissible (it is even desirable, because stable and fair prices are essential to solid and continued prosperity) why would it be wrong for the farmers to utilize central agencies that would have similar effects on agricultural products? Something like that is what they are aiming at.

Some farmers favored by regional compactness and contiguity, such as the citrus-fruit-raisers of California, already have found a way legally to merge and sell their products integrally and in accordance with seasonal and local demand, thus improving their position and rendering the consumer a reliable service of ensured quality, certain supply, and reasonable and relatively steady prices. They have not found it necessary to resort to any special privilege, or to claim any exemption under the anti-trust legislation of the state or nation. Without removing local control, they have built up a very efficient marketing agency. The grain, cotton, and tobacco farmers, and the producers of hides and wool, because of their numbers and the vastness of their regions, and for other reasons, have found integration a more difficult task; though there are now some thousands of farmer's co-operative elevators, warehouses, creameries, and other enterprises of one sort and another, with a turn-over of a billion dollars a year. They are giving the farmers business experience and training, and, so far as they go, they meet the need of honest weighing and fair grading; but they do not meet the requirements of rationally adjusted marketing in any large and fundamental way.

The next step, which will be a pattern for other groups, is now being prepared by the grain-raisers through the establishment of sales media which shall handle grain separately or collectively, as the individual farmer may elect. It is this step—the plan of the Committee of Seventeen—which has created so much opposition and is thought by some to be in conflict with the anti-trust laws. Though there is now before congress a measure designed to clear up doubt on this point, the grain-producers are not relying on any immunity from anti-trust legislation. They desire, and they are entitled, to co-ordinate their efforts just as effectively as the large business interests of the country have done. In connection with the selling organizations the United States Grain Growers Incorporated is drafting a scheme of financing instrumentalities and auxiliary agencies which are indispensable to the successful utilization of modern business methods.

It is essential that the farmers should proceed gradually with these plans, and aim to avoid the error of scrapping the existing marketing machinery, which has been so laboriously built up by long experience, before they have a tried and proved substitute or supplementary mechanism. They must be careful not to become enmeshed in their own reforms and lose the perspective of their place in the national system. They must guard against fanatical devotion to new doctrines, and should seek articulation with the general economic system rather than its reckless destruction as it relates to them.

To The Farmer Who Intends to Get Out of The Rut

And tries to put his farm on a Profit Sharing Basis, there is no way better to do so than by starting this spring with power-farming as I know personally that the farmers in the county who have Tractors get better results, also a saving of ten or twelve months feed and grazing, and have the assurance that the Tractor will do the work of six head of work stock. With an ordinary barn lantern for light you may run day and night while you are so rushed from any hindrance, such as we often have through continued rains in the Spring.

I will guarantee a better crop with a better seed bed, also will guarantee a better seed bed with less than half the cost with a Tractor than with horse power.

Before the drop in the price of a Fordson Tractor they were well worth their investment which was $625 F. O. B. Detroit but since Mr. Ford says that by helping the farmer to produce more at a much less expense and his surplus of ten, eleven and twelve months feed that goes to draft horses will be put into dairy cattle, hogs and numerous profits heretofore paid to the farm hand to drive those cheap teams that must have the best you raise or they can't stand the eight hours you give them at farming time.

So take this as you may: Oil at 12 1-2 cents per gallon and get results with the Tractor at the

Reduced Figures of $395

F. O. B. Detroit. You will have grain to sell and we, who have to buy, will not have to get our supply out of the county. We all know that most of our farmers at present are buying feed instead of having it to sell. As I am the dealer for the greatest machine made for both rich and poor, as well as for the business man of any class, I will at any time demonstrate the cart truck, and will bring the Tractor to any one and put it to your test. It does not matter what you want it for, I will try it out. Any boy ten years can pull two plows twelve hours, and will not know he has done anything at all after the day's work is done.

So I will thank you to remember you can get in on this for $395 F. O. B. Detroit.
